Exceptions to this policy may be granted to applicants who:

• Have studied in a regionally accredited U.S. college or university and can provide an official transcript showing successful completion of two college-level English composition courses with grades of C or higher.

• Have earned a degree from an institution where English was the sole language of instruction, and also the only official language of the country in which the institution is located.

The minimum English language test (ELT) scores for admission consideration are:
